‘No one needs to die of prostate cancer’ Best Theratronics and Best Medical International announce their Best® TOTAL SOLUTION for prostate cancer

Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, March 30, 2010. Best Theratronics Ltd [BTL] and Best Medical International [BMI] unveiled today their Best® Total Solution for prostate cancer diagnosis and treatment. Drawing on more than 50 years in medical equipment manufacturing, this innovative new product portfolio will provide a cost-effective solution in the fight against prostate cancer.

The Best® Total Solution portfolio includes a state-of-the-art Gamma Teletherapy System with IMRT and IGRT capability including CORVUS treatment planning system (TPS) with ActiveRx, Best® TPS with pathology mapping, the Best® Sonalis SimulView ultrasound, and a number of associated systems for brachytherapy. All of these are on display at the Best Theratronics headquarters in Kanata.

“By focusing on a Total Solution for prostate cancer diagnosis and treatment, we offer the best of clinically proven systems. This consists of a multi-pronged attack on the cancer. We use external beam radiation to address the concern that cancer cells may migrate outside the prostate gland [‘extra-prostatic extension’] and brachytherapy equipment with seed implants targeting the specific area of cancer, along with associated treatment planning systems and positioning equipment. Our belief is with the current level of Best® technology, no one needs to die of prostate cancer. This is an example of how Team Best companies are introducing new technologies to launch our fight against cancer globally,” said Krish Suthanthiran, President of BTL and BMI.
